

SAA 2009 Greifswald/Germany: Conference Announcement and Call for Abstracts

Dear colleagues:

It is a great pleasure to invite you to attend the inaugural Conference of the Society of Ambulatory Assessment (SAA) to be held in Greifswald, Germany, 25th to 28th of June 2009.

The SAA (www.ambulatory-assessment.org) was founded in 2008 with the intention of uniting the already well-established European Network for Ambulatory Assessment with a growing world-wide community of researchers, practitioners, and engineers who develop and apply methods to assess ongoing behavior, physiology, experience, and environmental aspects of humans or animals in naturalistic settings (like experience sampling, diary approaches, ecological momentary assessment, physiological monitoring, activity monitoring, movement analysis, assessment of energy expenditure, sleep analysis, or remote monitoring in telemedicine).

The Society is now commencing a new chapter, fostering ambulatory research and applications across disciplinary and geographic boundaries. The scientific program of the first SAA conference will include renowned keynote speakers and contributions by leading experts from different fields of ambulatory research. Moreover, plenty of time will be available for the development, discussion and exchange of ideas related to ambulatory assessment research.

Abstracts from all areas of ambulatory assessment research are welcome.

For more information and to submit your abstracts please visit www.saa2009.org

Deadline for abstract submission is the 31st of January, 2009.

We look forward to meeting you at the SAA 2009 on the Baltic shore.
